IMPORTANT NOTES

- The therapists included on this list as they have been recommended by patients, family care partners and/or colleagues. Inclusion on this list does not constitute endorsement by Jessica Shurer, the UNC Movement Disorders Center, UNC, or any other entity other than the person(s) who had originally shared positive feedback regarding the therapist.
- While we try to keep this list up to date, the availability, telehealth offering, contact information, etc. of the therapists are subject to change without our knowledge.
- We have noted when we are aware that a therapist is offering telehealth. This does not mean that those without this notation are not offering teletherapy, it just means that this information was not immediately available. Most therapists are offering teletherapy at this time. We are finding that a handful of therapists are providing in-person sessions and that how they do this (outside, with masks on in the therapy office, etc.) varies. We recommend that you inquire with them about their teletherapy VS in-person therapy offerings.

Considerations for exploring mental health therapists

We commend you on being open to seeking mental health therapy/counseling! Of course, therapy is not going to be right for everyone, but for many people it can be very beneficial to process feelings and experiences, as well as learn new coping skills, with an unbiased professional.

Tips

- It is very important to find a therapist who you trust, feel comfortable with and who will meet your psychological and emotional needs
- It can be helpful to contact at least 2 therapists for a consultation before choosing who you would like to work with. Some will even do free, brief over the phone consultations. The idea is to...
 - Get an idea of their personalities and if you feel that you will have good chemistry with them
 - Ask about their experience working with the specific issue(s) you wish to address
 - If you have a specific therapeutic or theoretical modality in mind (e.g., cognitive-behavioral therapy, acceptance & commitment therapy, art therapy, mindfulness), to inquire about what they practice

Fees and Insurance

- Additionally, it is important to discuss fees and insurance with the therapists or therapist agency prior to starting services.
- Fees and insurance coverage are different for every therapist.
 - Some are solely private pay while some take insurance.
 - For those who take insurance, what insurance plans they take greatly vary. They may or may not take your insurance. They may be in or out of network for your insurance.
 - Pretty much all therapists offer self-pay if insurance will not cover services. Fees are greatly varied (generally range $80-150/hour depending).
 - For private pay, some therapists will offer sliding scale or negotiable fees.
 - Even if they do not take insurance or your insurance, therapists may provide statements for you to file a claim with your insurance.
- Services may be covered in full or in part by health insurance or employee benefit plan.
 - You can check your coverage first if you wish by calling your insurance provider and asking the following questions:
 - Do I have mental health insurance benefits?
 - What is my deductible and has it been met?
 - How many sessions per year does my health insurance cover, and how often?
 - What is the coverage amount per therapy session?
 - Is approval and/or a referral required from my primary care physician?
- Medicare (M) is indicated for therapists on this list as this is the most frequent question we receive. Please contact the therapist or look at their online profiles to confirm they still accept Medicare and/or other insurance plans they may take or fee schedules they may offer. It is possible that some of these therapists take Medicare but it is not noted here. If they do not take Medicare, they may still be able to assist you in filing a claim for reimbursement.
